Our class will start counting by ones to 100 as part of our morning review, and we will also work on counting to 100 by 5s and 10s. Our work on addition will continue as well. This week, we will introduce our fact family to help the children better understand addition and start our work on subtraction. We will continue our unit on transportation. This week, we will focus on “kid-powered” transportation, animal transportation, and other forms of transportation. We will continue to learn about maps and discuss the differences between paper road maps and Google maps.
